

The aerial illustrates how the new treelined pedestrian route defines the edge of London Road and frees up potential development space along the abandoned road infrastructure. Generous cycle and pedestrian routes segregated where possible provides a pleasant environment for people.

